Lucky Dube established the reggae house at Ancilla College. It is known as the Ancilla House and was established by him and others. So far, this institution has produced many prominent Xitsonga artists. The primary aim of the Ancilla House is to provide a holistic education for children from diverse cultural and religious backgrounds. Lucky Dube ran for president of the Zulu King Cetshwayo's People's Party for a period in 1998. He was refused the nomination but later succeeded in the general election held in 1999. He was best known for spearheading the effort against apartheid and for his militant anti-apartheid stance. He successfully mounted an independent campaign for the South African Parliament (National Assembly) in the 2009 general elections, representing the Western Cape. He was elected as the leader of the African National Congress Alliance, a broad alliance of parties that includes the African National Congress (ANC) and a number of other smaller parties. He resigned from the ANC in 2009. Oh Mama. Oh! Dube says he will be singing this song tonight during a concert sponsored by the group Paradise. Dube says God is going to bless him and those who love him because he is back. Dube says in his life he will find a woman to marry because at his age, he wants a family of his own, and also that he wants to settle down and devote himself to providing for the things that he needs. Dube says the book of life has not yet been opened before them. Dube says that he has lost other men but does not believe that he will lose his life. Dube says he is still faithful to his girlfriend. Dube says they will write about it again. Dube says he finds it sad that the world has nothing to do with the birth of Jesus Christ. Dube says God will welcome him with open arms. Dube says some of the deceased are very sad. Dube says he believes in life after death. Dube says the Bible is true and that Jesus Christ will show him the right path to follow. Dube says he will sing this song as he lives for as long as he can sing. Dube says his good friends will never make him see anything wrong in anything he does. Dube says he has a mother who died from cancer and a father who died from his drinking. Dube says the Bible is a wonderful book. Dube says the whole world is celebrating the arrival of Christmas but Dube will celebrate the arrival of God who is Jesus Christ.

ROC Reggae's best known song "TINGS OF THE TIMES" (ALWAYS SAY THINGS TO ME, OR YOU WILL SEE ME SWEETLY) was an inspired send-off to Lucky Dube at the time of his passing and he asked one of his friends DJ KALONJE, to put this tribute mix together. Lucky Dube is a popular South African Rastafarian rapper and reggae singer who sings mostly in the language of Zulu called Xitsonga. His music is particularly Rastafarian in nature with such lyrics as "One Love", "Marcus Garvey", and "We Are One." He has recorded more than 23 albums. His 1987 hit "Forgive Me If I Cry" reached No. 1 on the Billboard Reggae Charts.[1] He has also recorded some songs in Afrikaans and English for pop/rock and dance fusion albums.[2] Some of these albums were listed as platinum in South Africa and other markets. In his song, "Rise from Ashes," it is the singer who felt up against because of his not being from Mars, which is very interesting. Lucky Dube was born on February 23, 1968 in a rural area in Western Cape. He received his primary and secondary education at the St. Martin's Secondary School in Hibberdene, Cape Town. He later attended the Ancilla College in Goodwood. He was also educated at the University of South Africa, where he obtained a Diploma in Journalism. He later attended the Nelson Mandela Metropolitan University, Western Cape. Luck Dube is a self-taught musician, who began to compose as early as his elementary school. As he grew up, he started playing the trumpet and keyboard. He became popular with his first album, Experience Hope, recorded in 1989. He had major hits like Lucky A Reason, c Respect, and Ghetto Hunter. He was a member of the group Jungle Brothers. After seven years of steady recording, his music began to crack and slide, and his popularity waned. On October 2, 2007, he released the album, Giwa (Show Time) and called it a "seasonal release". The South African pop music channel, M-Net awarded the album a Triple Diamond Award in February 2008. 5ec8ef588b
