This new game comes in the form of a PC, Mac, and Linux game. There are a lot of things the new game is known for. One of the things for instance is that the game will be free, there will be no in-game purchases and it comes with a slider that allows you to control how loot is generated. The long-awaited video game Lumberhill has finally been released, but unfortunately the game is experiencing serious problems right from the start. Players are reporting that the game is crashing, and even games that are similar to Lumberhill such as Goat Simulator arent having the same kind of issues. There hasnt been any official response to these issues, but many players have begun to call for refunds. I love a good multiplayer game and Lumberhill is one of the craziest I have come across in quite some time. I have a feeling that this is going to be a game that takes YouTube and Twitch by storm once it catches on. It is the kind of game that is made to be played with other people. It does have a solo mode (which is fun) however, I feel that if you are looking at this as a potential purchase, you need to come into this with the idea of playing with your buddies.
